CASE NO. 2:22-cv-02917-GEKP

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

FIRST AMENDED CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

Plaintiffs Cara-Aimee Long Corra and Valarie Hanna (“Plaintiffs”) bring this action on behalf of themselves, and all others similarly situated against Defendant, Acts Retirement Services, Inc., (“Acts” or “Defendant”), and its present, former, or future direct and indirect parent companies, subsidiaries, affiliates, agents, and/or other related entities, and alleges as follows:

SUMMARY OF THE CASE

1. Defendant Acts, a not-for-profit Pennsylvania corporation serving as the parent company to affiliates that provide residential, assisted living, and skilled care services to senior citizens, lost control over its employees’ highly sensitive personal information in a data breach by cybercriminals (“Data Breach”). The number of total breach victims is unknown, but on information and belief, the Data Breach has impacted at least thousands of former and current employees.

2. On information and belief, the Data Breach occurred on or around April 29, 2022, and was first discovered by Acts on or around May 2, 2022. On or around May 17, 2022, Defendant's investigations revealed that cybercriminals gained unauthorized access to current and former employees' personally identifiable information ("PII") stored on Defendant's network.

3. On information and belief, cybercriminals bypassed Defendant's inadequate security systems to access employees' PII in its computer systems.

4. On information and belief, the stolen PII included, at least, employees' names, Social Security numbers, and financial account information and routing numbers.

5. On or around June 27, 2022—nearly two months after the Data Breach first occurred—Defendant finally began notifying victims about the breach (the "Breach Notice").

6. Defendant's Breach Notice obfuscated the nature of the breach and the threat it posed—refusing to tell its employees how many people were impacted, how the breach happened, or why it took the Defendant nearly two months to begin notifying victims that hackers had gained access to highly sensitive employee information.

7. Defendant's failure to timely detect and report the Data Breach made its current and former employees vulnerable to identity theft without any warnings to monitor their financial accounts or credit reports to prevent unauthorized use of their PII.

8. Defendant knew or should have known that each victim of the Data Breach deserved prompt and efficient notice of the Data Breach and assistance in mitigating the effects of PII misuse.

9. In failing to adequately protect employees' information, adequately notify them about the breach, and obfuscating the nature of the breach, Defendant violated state and federal law and harmed an unknown number of its affiliates' current and former employees.

10. Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class are victims of Defendant's negligence and inadequate cyber security measures. Specifically, Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class trusted Defendant with their PII. But Defendant betrayed that trust. Defendant failed to properly use up-to-date security practices to prevent the Data Breach.

11. Plaintiffs Corra and Hanna are former Acts employees and Data Breach victim. Ms. Corra worked for an ACTS affiliate in Boca Raton, Florida in 1996. Ms. Hanna worked for an Acts affiliate in Vero Beach, Florida approximately 20 years ago.

12. Accordingly, Plaintiffs, on their own behalf and on behalf of a class of similarly situated individuals, bring this lawsuit seeking injunctive relief, damages, and restitution, together with costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, the calculation of which will be based on information in Defendant's possession.

PARTIES

13. Plaintiff Cara-Aimee Long Corra is a natural person and citizen of Ohio, residing in Cincinnati, Ohio, where she intends to remain. Ms. Corra is a former Acts employee and Data Breach victim, receiving Defendant's Breach Notice on July 6, 2022.

14. Plaintiff Corra has taken great steps to protect her sensitive personal information, including using credit monitoring services, regularly monitoring her credit reports, and has locked her credit cards so no additional fraudulent transactions can take place.

15. Plaintiff Valarie Hanna is a natural person and citizen of Florida, residing in Vero Beach, Florida, where she intends to remain. Ms. Hanna is a former Acts employee and Data Breach victim, receiving Defendant's Breach Notice on July 3, 2022.

16. Defendant, Acts, is a Pennsylvania Non-Profit Corporation, with its principal place of business at 420 Delaware Dr., PO BOX 2222, Fort Washington, PA 19034. Defendant's affiliates provide assisted living and skilled care services to senior citizens in multiple states around the country, including, but not limited to Alabama, Delaware, Florida, and Pennsylvania.

JURISDICTION & VENUE

17. This Court has subject matter jurisdiction over this action under 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d) because this is a class action wherein the amount in controversy exceeds the sum or value of $5,000,000, exclusive of interest and costs, there are more than 100 members in the proposed class, and at least one member of the class is a citizen of a state different from Defendant. The requirement of minimal diversity is met as the dispute is between citizens of Ohio and Florida and a Defendant from Pennsylvania. See 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d)(2)(A).

18. This Court has personal jurisdiction over Defendant because Acts is headquartered in this District and Acts conducts substantial business in this District.

19. Venue is proper in this District because Acts is headquartered in this District and a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to Plaintiffs' claims occurred in this District.

BACKGROUND FACTS

20. On information and belief, Acts is the parent company to multiple affiliated entities, including Acts Retirement-Life Communities, Inc., providing assisted living and skilled nursing care to senior citizens. According to its website, Acts “is one of the largest not-for-profit-operations of continuing care retirement communities in the United States.”²

21. On information and belief, Acts accumulates highly sensitive PII of its employees.
22. On information and belief, Acts maintains former employees’ PII for years—even decades—after the employee-employer relationship is terminated.

23. Despite recognizing its duty to do so, on information and belief, Acts has not implemented reasonable cybersecurity safeguards or policies to protect employee PII or trained its IT or data security employees to prevent, detect, and stop breaches of its systems. As a result, Acts leaves vulnerabilities in its systems for cybercriminals to exploit and gain access to employee PII.

b. Acts Fails to Safeguard Employee PII

24. Plaintiffs are former employees of Acts.
25. As a condition of employment with Acts, Defendant requires its employees to disclose their names and Social Security numbers, as well as financial account and routing numbers for those employees receiving compensation through direct deposits.
26. On information and belief, Acts collects and maintains employee PII in its computer systems.
27. In collecting and maintaining the PII, Acts implicitly agrees it will safeguard the data using reasonable means according to its internal policies and federal law.
28. According to the June 27, 2022, Breach Notice, Acts first “detected suspicious activity on [its] network” in April 2022. Exh. A.

29. Defendant’s investigation revealed that its network had been hacked by cybercriminals and that Defendant’s inadequate cyber and data security systems and measures allowed those responsible for the cyberattack to obtain files containing a treasure trove of thousands of Acts employees' personal, private, and sensitive information, including but not limited to employees' names, Social Security numbers, and—for those employees who used direct deposit—bank accounts and routing numbers.

30. Employees place value in data privacy and security. These are important considerations when deciding who to work and provide services for. Plaintiffs would not have accepted the Defendant's employment offer, nor provided their PII, to Acts had they known that ACTS does not take all necessary precautions to secure the personal and financial data given to it by its employees.

31. Despite its duties and alleged commitments to safeguard PII, Acts does not follow industry standard practices in securing employees' PII, as evidenced by the Data Breach and stolen employee PII.

32. In response to the Data Breach, Acts contends that it "continue[s] to assess [its] network security and to implement additional measures as appropriate," Exh. A. Although ACTS fails to expand on these alleged "additional measures," such steps should have been in place before the Data Breach.

33. Through its Breach Notice, Acts also recognized the actual imminent harm and injury that flowed from the Data Breach, so it encouraged breach victims to "remain vigilant against incidents of identity theft and fraud by reviewing [their] account statements and monitoring [their] free credit reports." Exh. A.

34. On information and belief, Acts has offered only twelve months of complimentary credit monitoring services to victims, which does not adequately address the lifelong harm that victims will face following the Data Breach. Indeed, the breach involves PII that cannot be changed, such as Social Security numbers. Further, the breach exposed employees' nonpublic financial information, a disturbing harm in and of itself.

35. Even with complimentary credit monitoring services, the risk of identity theft and unauthorized use of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' PII is still substantially high. The fraudulent activity resulting from the Data Breach may not come to light for years.

36. Cybercriminals need not harvest a person's Social Security number or financial account information in order to commit identity fraud or misuse Plaintiffs' and the Class's PII. Cybercriminals can cross-reference the data stolen from the Data Breach and combine with other sources to create "Fullz" packages, which can then be used to commit fraudulent account activity on Plaintiff's and the Class's financial accounts.

37. On information and belief, Acts failed to adequately train its IT and data security employees on reasonable cybersecurity protocols or implement reasonable security measures, causing it to lose control over employee PII. Defendant's negligence is evidenced by its failure to prevent the Data Breach and stop cybercriminals from accessing PII. Further, the Breach Notice makes clear that Acts cannot, or will not, determine the full scope of the Data Breach, as it has been unable to determine exactly what information was stolen and when.

c. Plaintiffs' Experience

Plaintiff Corra

38. Plaintiff Corra is a former Acts employee.

39. She was employed by Acts more than twenty-five years ago.

40. During the time of her employment, she was a minor, residing in Southern Florida.

41. As a condition of employment with Acts, Plaintiff Corra was required to provide her PII.

42. Plaintiff Corra provided her PII to Acts and trusted that the company would use reasonable measures to protect it according to Defendant's internal policies, as well as state and federal law.

43. Plaintiff Corra received a Breach Notice on July 6, 2022, from Defendant dated June 27, 2022, indicating that her PII, including at least her name and Social Security number, may have been compromised in the Data Breach. In addition to the damages detailed herein, the Data Breach has caused Plaintiff Corra, to be at substantial risk for further identity theft.

44. In mid-July, Plaintiff Corra experienced fraud on her accounts. Her bank alerted her that someone tried to transfer $2500 out of her checking account via Zelle. Luckily, the transaction was not completed with the bank's intervention, but this fraudulent transaction caused Plaintiff Corra significant mental distress and she spent approximately five to seven hours confirming with her bank and Zelle that the transaction was not processed.

45. Plaintiff Corra has taken great steps to protect her sensitive personal information, including signing up for credit monitoring, not transmitting her personal information via unencrypted means, regularly monitoring her credit reports, and locking her credit cards.

46. Plaintiff has and will spend considerable time and effort monitoring her accounts to protect herself from identity theft. Plaintiff fears for her personal financial security and uncertainty over what PII was exposed in the Data Breach. Plaintiff has and is experiencing feelings of anxiety, sleep disruption, stress, fear, and frustration because of the Data Breach. This goes far beyond allegations of mere worry or inconvenience; it is exactly the sort of injury and harm to a Data Breach victim that the law contemplates and addresses.

Plaintiff Hanna

47. Plaintiff Hanna is a former Acts employee.

48. She was employed by Acts more than twenty years ago.

49. As a condition of employment with Acts, Plaintiff Hanna was required to provide her PII.

50. Plaintiff Hanna provided her PII to Acts and trusted that the company would use reasonable measures to protect it according to Defendant's internal policies, as well as state and federal law.

51. Plaintiff Hanna received a Breach Notice on July 3, 2022, from Defendant dated June 27, 2022, indicating that her PII, including at least her name and Social Security number, may have been compromised in the Data Breach. In addition to the damages detailed herein, the Data Breach has caused Plaintiff Hanna, to be at substantial risk for further identity theft.

52. Plaintiff Hanna has taken great steps to protect her sensitive personal information, including signing up for credit monitoring, not transmitting her personal information via unencrypted means, regularly monitoring her credit reports, and locking her credit cards.

53. Plaintiff Hanna has and will spend considerable time and effort monitoring her accounts to protect herself from identity theft. Plaintiff Hanna fears for her personal financial security and uncertainty over what PII was exposed in the Data Breach. Plaintiff Hanna has and is experiencing feelings of anxiety, sleep disruption, stress, fear, and frustration because of the Data Breach. This goes far beyond allegations of mere worry or inconvenience; it is exactly the sort of injury and harm to a Data Breach victim that the law contemplates and addresses.

d. Plaintiffs and the Proposed Class Face Significant Risk of Continued Identity Theft

54. Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class have suffered injury from the misuse of their PII that can be directly traced to Defendant.

55. The ramifications of Defendant's failure to keep Plaintiffs' and the Class's PII secure are severe. Identity theft occurs when someone uses another's personal and financial information such as that person's name, account number, Social Security number, or other nonpublic financial information, without permission, to commit fraud or other crimes.

56. The types of personal data compromised and potentially stolen in the ACTS Data Breach is highly valuable to identity thieves. The employees' stolen PII can be used to gain access to a variety of existing accounts and websites to drain assets, bank accounts or open phony credit cards.

57. Identity thieves can also use this data to harm Plaintiffs and Class members through embarrassment, blackmail, or harassment in person or online, or to commit other types of fraud including obtaining ID cards or driver's licenses, fraudulently obtaining tax returns and refunds, and obtaining government benefits. A Presidential Report on identity theft from 2008 states that:

In addition to the losses that result when identity thieves fraudulently open accounts or misuse existing accounts, . . . individual victims often suffer indirect financial costs, including the costs incurred in both civil litigation initiated by creditors and in overcoming the many obstacles they face in obtaining or retaining credit. Victims of non-financial identity theft, for example, health-related or criminal record fraud, face other types of harm and frustration.

In addition to out-of-pocket expenses that can reach thousands of dollars for the victims of new account identity theft, and the emotional toll identity theft can take, some victims have to spend what can be a considerable amount of time to repair the damage caused by the identity thieves. Victims of new account identity theft, for example, must correct fraudulent information in their credit reports and monitor their reports for future inaccuracies, close existing bank accounts and open new ones, and dispute charges with individual creditors.

58. As a result of Defendant's failure to prevent the Data Breach, Plaintiffs and the proposed Class have suffered and will continue to suffer damages, including monetary losses, lost time, anxiety, and emotional distress. They have suffered or are at an increased risk of suffering:

- a. The loss of the opportunity to control how their PII is used;
- b. The diminution in value of their PII;
- c. The compromise and continuing publication of their PII;
- d. Out-of-pocket costs associated with the prevention, detection, recovery, and remediation from identity theft or fraud;
- e. Lost opportunity costs and lost wages associated with the time and effort expended addressing and attempting to mitigate the actual and future consequences of the Data Breach, including, but not limited to, efforts spent researching how to prevent, detect, contest, and recover from identity theft and fraud;
- f. Delay in receipt of tax refund monies;
- g. Unauthorized use of stolen PII; and
- h. The continued risk to their PII, which remains in the possession of defendant and is subject to further breaches so long as defendant fails to undertake the appropriate measures to protect the PII in their possession.

59. Stolen PII is one of the most valuable commodities on the criminal information black market. According to Experian, a credit-monitoring service, stolen PII can be worth up to $1,000.00 depending on the type of information obtained.³

60. The value of Plaintiffs' and the proposed Class's PII on the black market is considerable. Stolen PII trades on the black market for years, and criminals frequently post stolen private information openly and directly on various "dark web" internet websites, making the information publicly available, for a substantial fee of course.

³ See Here's How Much Your Personal Information Is Selling for on the Dark Web, Experian, <https://www.experian.com/blogs/ask-experian/heres-how-much-your-personal-information-is-selling-for-on-the-dark-web/> (last visited July 7, 2022).

61. It can take victims years to spot identity or PII theft, giving criminals plenty of time to use that information for cash.

62. One such example of criminals using PII for profit is the development of “Fullz” packages.

63. Cyber-criminals can cross-reference two sources of PII to marry unregulated data available elsewhere to criminally stolen data with an astonishingly complete scope and degree of accuracy in order to assemble complete dossiers on individuals. These dossiers are known as “Fullz” packages.⁴

64. The development of “Fullz” packages means that stolen PII from the Data Breach can easily be used to link and identify it to Plaintiffs and the proposed Class’s phone numbers, email addresses, and other unregulated sources and identifiers. In other words, even if certain information such as emails, phone numbers, or credit card numbers may not be included in the PII stolen by the cyber-criminals in the Data Breach, criminals can easily create a Fullz package and sell it at a higher price to unscrupulous operators and criminals (such as illegal and scam telemarketers) over and over. That is exactly what is happening to Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class, and it is reasonable for any trier of fact, including this Court or a jury, to find that Plaintiffs and other members of the proposed Class’s stolen PII is being misused, and that such misuse is fairly traceable to the Data Breach.

65. Defendant disclosed the PII of Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class for criminals to use in the conduct of criminal activity. Specifically, Defendant opened up, disclosed, and exposed the PII of Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class to people engaged in disruptive and unlawful business practices and tactics, including online account hacking, unauthorized use of financial accounts, and fraudulent attempts to open unauthorized financial accounts (i.e., identity fraud), all using the stolen PII.

66. Defendant's use of outdated and insecure computer systems and software that are easy to hack, and its failure to maintain adequate security measures and an up-to-date technology security strategy, demonstrates a willful and conscious disregard for privacy, and has exposed the PII of Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class to unscrupulous operators, con artists, and criminals.

67. Defendant's failure to properly notify Plaintiffs and members of the proposed Class of the Data Breach exacerbated Plaintiffs' and members of the proposed Class's injury by depriving them of the earliest ability to take appropriate measures to protect their PII and take other necessary steps to mitigate the harm caused by the Data Breach.

e. Acts Failed to Adhere to FTC Guidelines

68. According to the Federal Trade Commission ("FTC"), the need for data security should be factored into all business decision-making. To that end, the FTC has issued numerous guidelines identifying best data security practices that businesses, such as Defendant, should employ to protect against the unlawful exposure of PII.

69. In 2016, the FTC updated its publication, Protecting Personal Information: A Guide for Business, which established guidelines for fundamental data security principles and practices for business. The guidelines explain that businesses should:

- a. protect the personal customer information that they keep;
- b. properly dispose of personal information that is no longer needed;
- c. encrypt information stored on computer networks;
- d. understand their network's vulnerabilities; and

e. implement policies to correct security problems.

70. The guidelines also recommend that businesses watch for large amounts of data being transmitted from the system and have a response plan ready in the event of a breach.

71. The FTC recommends that companies not maintain information longer than is needed for authorization of a transaction; limit access to sensitive data; require complex passwords to be used on networks; use industry-tested methods for security; monitor for suspicious activity on the network; and verify that third-party service providers have implemented reasonable security measures.

72. The FTC has brought enforcement actions against businesses for failing to adequately and reasonably protect customer data, treating the failure to employ reasonable and appropriate measures to protect against unauthorized access to confidential consumer data as an unfair act or practice prohibited by Section 5 of the Federal Trade Commission Act (“FTCA”), 15 U.S.C. § 45. Orders resulting from these actions further clarify the measures businesses must take to meet their data security obligations.

73. Defendant’s failure to employ reasonable and appropriate measures to protect against unauthorized access to consumers’ PII constitutes an unfair act or practice prohibited by Section 5 of the FTCA, 15 U.S.C. § 45.

f. Plaintiffs and Class Members Suffered Damages

74. The compromised and stolen information of Plaintiffs and Class members is private and sensitive in nature and was left inadequately protected by Acts. Defendant did not obtain Plaintiffs’ and Class members’ consent to disclose this data to any other person as required by applicable law and industry standards.

75. As discussed above, Plaintiffs’ personal, private, and sensitive data, including but not limited to financial data, which Acts allowed to be stolen has already been used to inflict harm on Plaintiffs.

76. Plaintiff Corra has experienced fraud on her accounts.

77. The data breach was a direct and proximate result of Defendant's failure to properly safeguard and protect Plaintiffs' and Class members' personal data from unauthorized access, use, and disclosure, as required by various state and federal regulations, industry practices, and the common law, including the failure to establish and implement appropriate administrative, technical, and physical safeguards to ensure the security and confidentiality of Plaintiffs' and Class members' sensitive personal information to protect against reasonably foreseeable threats to the security or integrity of such information.

78. Had Acts remedied the deficiencies in its information storage and security systems, followed industry guidelines, and adopted security measures recommended by experts in the field, Acts would have prevented intrusion into its information storage and security systems and, ultimately, the theft of Plaintiffs' and the Class Members' confidential personal, sensitive, and private information and data.

79. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's wrongful actions and inaction and the resulting data breach, Plaintiffs and Class members have been placed at an imminent, immediate, and continuing increased risk of harm from identity theft and identity fraud, requiring them to take the time which they otherwise would have dedicated to other life demands such as work and family in an effort to mitigate the actual and potential impact of the data breach on their lives including, inter alia, by placing "freezes" and "alerts" with credit reporting agencies, contacting their financial institutions, closing or modifying financial accounts, closely reviewing and monitoring their credit reports and accounts for unauthorized activity, and filing police reports.

This time has been lost forever and cannot be recaptured.

80. Defendant's wrongful actions and inaction directly and proximately caused the potential theft and dissemination into the public domain of Plaintiffs' and Class members' personal data, causing them to suffer, and continue to suffer, economic damages and other actual harm for which they are entitled to compensation, including:

- a. theft of their personal and financial information;
- b. unauthorized charges on their debit and credit card accounts;
- c. the actual, imminent, and certainly impending injury flowing from potential fraud and identity theft posed by their credit/debit card and personal information being placed in the hands of criminals and misused via the sale of Plaintiffs' and Class members' information on the Internet's black market;
- d. the untimely and inadequate notification of the data breach;
- e. the improper disclosure of their personal data;
- f. loss of privacy;
- g. ascertainable losses in the form of out-of-pocket expenses and the value of their time reasonably incurred to remedy or mitigate the effects of the data breach;
- h. ascertainable losses in the form of deprivation of the value of their personal data, for which there is a well-established national and international market;
- i. ascertainable losses in the form of the loss of cash back or other benefits as a result of their inability to use certain accounts and cards affected by the data breach;
- j. loss of use of, and access to, their account funds and costs associated with the inability to obtain money from their accounts or being limited in the amount of money they were permitted to obtain from their accounts, including missed payments on bills and loans, late charges and fees, and adverse effects on their credit including adverse credit notations; and

k. the loss of productivity and value of their time spent to address, attempt to ameliorate, mitigate, and deal with the actual and future consequences of the data breach, including finding fraudulent charges, cancelling and reissuing cards, purchasing credit monitoring and identity theft protection services, imposition of withdrawal and purchase limits on compromised accounts, and the inconvenience, nuisance and annoyance of dealing with all such issues resulting from the Data breach

g. Defendant's Offer of Credit Monitoring is Inadequate

81. At present, Acts has offered two years of free credit monitoring provided by TransUnion to breach victims.

82. As previously alleged, Plaintiffs' and the Class Members' personal data may exist on the Dark Web and in the public domain for months, or even years, before it is used for ill gains and actions. With only two years of monitoring, and no form of insurance or other protection, Plaintiffs and Class Members remain unprotected from the real and long-term threats against their personal, sensitive, and private data.

83. Therefore, the "monitoring" services offered by Acts are inadequate, and Plaintiffs and Class Members have a real and cognizable interest in obtaining equitable relief, in addition to the monetary relief requested herein.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

84. Plaintiffs bring this action pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23 on behalf of themselves and all members of the proposed class (the “Class”), defined as follows:

Class: All individuals residing in the United States whose personal information was compromised in the Data Breach disclosed by Acts in June 2022.

85. The following people are excluded from the Class: (1) any judge or magistrate presiding over this action and members of their families; (2) Defendant, Defendant’s subsidiaries, parents, successors, predecessors, affiliated entities, and any entity in which the Defendant or its parent has a controlling interest, and their current or former officers and directors; (3) persons who properly execute and file a timely request for exclusion from the Class; (4) persons whose claims in this matter have been finally adjudicated on the merits or otherwise released; (5) Plaintiffs’ counsel and Defendant’s counsel; and (6) the legal representatives, successors, and assigns of any such excluded persons.

86. Plaintiffs reserve the right to amend the Class definition or add a Class if further information and discovery indicate that other classes should be added and if the definition of the Class should be narrowed, expanded, or otherwise modified.

87. Plaintiffs and members of the Class satisfy the numerosity, commonality, typicality, and adequacy requirements under Fed. R. Civ. P. 23:

a. Numerosity. The exact number of Class members is unknown but is estimated to be up to thousands of former and current Acts employees at this time, and individual joinder in this case is impracticable. Class Members can be easily identified through Defendant’s records and objective criteria permitting self-identification in response to notice, and notice can be provided through techniques similar to those customarily used in other data breach, unlawful trade practices, and class action controversies;

b. Typicality: Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of other Class members in that Plaintiffs, and the Class Members sustained damages arising out of Defendant's Data Breach, wrongful conduct and misrepresentations, false statements, concealment, and unlawful practices, and Plaintiffs and the Class Members sustained similar injuries and damages, as a result of Defendant's uniform illegal conduct;

c. Adequacy: Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately represent and protect the interests of the Class and has retained counsel competent and experienced in complex class actions to vigorously prosecute this action on behalf of the Class. Plaintiffs have no interests that conflict with, or are antagonistic to those of, the Class, and Defendant has no defenses unique to Plaintiffs.

d. Commonality and Predominance: There are many questions of law and fact common to the claims of Plaintiffs and the Class, and those questions predominate over any questions that may affect individual members of the Class. Common questions for the Class include, but are not necessarily limited to the following:

- i. Whether Defendant had a duty to use reasonable care in safeguarding Plaintiffs' and the Class's PII;
- ii. Whether Defendant failed to implement and maintain reasonable security procedures and practices appropriate to the nature and scope of the information compromised in the Data Breach;
- iii. Whether Defendant was negligent in maintaining, protecting, and securing PII;
- iv. Whether Defendant breached contract promises to safeguard Plaintiffs' and the Class's PII;

- v. Whether Defendant publicized Plaintiffs' and the Class's private life;
- vi. Whether Defendant took reasonable measures to determine the extent of the Data Breach after discovering it;
- vii. Whether Defendant's Breach Notice was reasonable;
- viii. Whether the Data Breach caused Plaintiffs and the Class injuries;
- ix. What the proper damages measure is; and
- x. Whether Plaintiffs and the Class are entitled to damages, treble damages, or injunctive relief.

e. Superiority: This case is also appropriate for class certification because class proceedings are superior to all other available methods for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy as joinder of all parties is impracticable. The damages suffered by the individual members of the Class will likely be relatively small, especially given the burden and expense of individual prosecution of the complex litigation necessitated by Defendant's actions. Thus, it would be virtually impossible for the individual members of the Class to obtain effective relief from Defendant's misconduct. Even if members of the Class could sustain such individual litigation, it would still not be preferable to a class action, because individual litigation would increase the delay and expense to all parties due to the complex legal and factual controversies presented in this Complaint. By contrast, a class action presents far fewer management difficulties and provides the benefits of single adjudication, economy of scale, and comprehensive supervision by a single court. Economies of time, effort and expense will be fostered, and uniformity of decisions ensured.

CLAIMS ALLEGED ON BEHALF OF PLAINTIFFS AND THE CLASS

First Claim for Relief
Negligence
(On Behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class)

88. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class incorporate the above allegations as if fully set forth herein.

89. Plaintiffs and members of the Class entrusted their PII to Acts. Defendant owed a duty to Plaintiffs and the Class to exercise reasonable care in safeguarding and protecting their personal data and keeping it from being compromised, lost, stolen, misused, and or/disclosed to unauthorized parties. This duty included, among other things, designing, maintaining, and testing Defendant's security systems to ensure the personal data of Plaintiffs' and the Class was adequately secured and protected, including using encryption technologies. Defendant further had a duty to implement processes that would detect a breach of its security system in a timely manner.

90. Acts was under a basic duty to act with reasonable care when it undertook to collect, create, and store Plaintiffs' and the Class's sensitive data on its computer system, fully aware—as any reasonable entity of its size would be—of the prevalence of data breaches and the resulting harm such a breach would cause. The recognition of Defendant's duty to act reasonably in this context is consistent with, inter alia, the Restatement (Second) of Torts § 302B (1965), which recounts a basic principle: an act or omission may be negligent if the actor realizes or should realize it involves an unreasonable risk of harm to another, even if the harm occurs through the criminal acts of a third party.

91. Defendant knew that the personal data of Plaintiffs and the Class was personal and sensitive information that is valuable to identity thieves and other criminals. Defendant also knew of the serious harms that could happen if the personal data of Plaintiffs and the Class was wrongfully disclosed, that disclosure was not fixed.

92. By being entrusted by Plaintiffs and the Class to safeguard their personal data, Defendant had a special relationship with Plaintiffs and the Class. Plaintiffs and the Class agreed to provide their personal data with the understanding that Defendant would take appropriate measures to protect it and would inform Plaintiffs and the Class of any security concerns that might call for action by Plaintiffs and the Class.

93. Defendant breached its duty to exercise reasonable care in safeguarding and protecting Plaintiffs' and the Class members' personal data by failing to adopt, implement, and maintain adequate security measures to safeguard that information, despite failures and intrusions, and allowing unauthorized access to Plaintiffs' and the other Class member's personal data.

94. But for Defendant's wrongful and negligent breach of its duties owed to Plaintiffs and the Class, their personal data would not have been compromised, stolen, and viewed by unauthorized persons. Defendant's negligence was a direct and legal cause of the theft of the personal data of Plaintiffs and the Class and all resulting damages.

95. The injury and harm suffered by Plaintiffs and the Class members was the reasonably foreseeable result of Defendant's failure to exercise reasonable care in safeguarding and protecting Plaintiffs' and the other Class members' personal data. Defendant knew its systems and technologies for processing and securing the personal data of Plaintiffs and the Class had numerous security vulnerabilities.

96. As a result of this misconduct by Defendant, the personal data of Plaintiffs and the Class were compromised, placing them at a greater risk of identity theft and subjecting them to identity theft, and their personal data was disclosed to third parties without their consent. Plaintiffs and Class members also suffered diminution in value of their personal data in that it is now easily available to hackers on the Dark Web. Plaintiffs and the Class have also suffered consequential out of pocket losses for procuring credit freeze or protection services, identity theft monitoring, and other expenses relating to identity theft losses or protective measures.

Second Claim for Relief Negligence Per Se
(On Behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class)

97. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class incorporate the above allegations as if fully set forth herein.

98. Pursuant to the FTC Act, 15 U.S.C. § 45, Defendant had a duty to provide fair and adequate computer systems and data security practices to safeguard Plaintiffs and members of the Class's PII.

99. Section 5 of the FTC Act prohibits "unfair . . . practices in or affecting commerce," including, as interpreted and enforced by the FTC, the unfair act or practice by businesses, such as Defendant, of failing to use reasonable measures to protect customers or, in this case, employees' PII. The FTC publications and orders promulgated pursuant to the FTC Act also form part of the basis of Defendant's duty to protect Plaintiffs' and the members of the Class's sensitive PII.

100. Defendant violated Section 5 of the FTC Act by failing to use reasonable measures to protect personal data and not complying with applicable industry standards, as described in detail herein.

101. Defendant's violation of Section 5 of the FTC Act constitutes negligence per se

102. The harm that has occurred is the type of harm the FTC Act is intended to guard against. Indeed, the FTC has pursued numerous enforcement actions against businesses that, because of their failure to employ reasonable data security measures and avoid unfair and deceptive practices, caused the same harm as that suffered by Plaintiffs and members of the Class.

103. Defendant breached its respective duties to Plaintiffs and members of the Class under the FTC Act by failing to provide fair, reasonable, or adequate computer systems and data security practices to safeguard Plaintiffs' and members of the Class's PII.

104. But for Defendant's wrongful and negligent breach of its duties owed to Plaintiffs and members of the Class, Plaintiffs and members of the Class would not have been injured.

105. The injury and harm suffered by Plaintiffs and members of the Class were the reasonably foreseeable result of Defendant's breach of its duties. Defendant knew or should have known that Defendant was failing to meet its duties and that its breach would cause Plaintiffs and members of the Class to suffer the foreseeable harms associated with the exposure of their PII.

106. Had Plaintiffs and members of the Class known that Defendant did not adequately protect their PII, Plaintiffs and members of the Class would not have entrusted Defendant with their PII.

107. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's negligence per se, Plaintiffs and members of the Class have suffered harm, including loss of time and money resolving fraudulent charges; loss of time and money obtaining protections against future identity theft; lost control over the value of PII; unreimbursed losses relating to fraudulent charges; losses relating to exceeding credit and debit card limits and balances; harm resulting from damaged credit scores and information; and other harm resulting from the unauthorized use or threat of unauthorized use of stolen personal information, entitling them to damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

108. Additionally, as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's negligence per se, Plaintiffs and Class members have suffered and will suffer the continued risks of exposure of their personal data, which remain in Defendant's possession and is subject to further unauthorized disclosures so long as Defendant fails to undertake appropriate and adequate measures to protect their personal data in its continued possession.

Third Claim for Relief
Breach of Confidence
(On Behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class)

109. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class incorporate the above allegations as if fully set forth herein.

110. At all times during Plaintiffs' and Class Members' interactions with Defendant, Defendant was fully aware of the confidential and sensitive nature of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data that Plaintiffs and Class Members provided to Defendant.

111. As alleged herein and above, Defendant's relationship with Plaintiffs and Class Members was governed by expectations that Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data would be collected, stored, and protected in confidence, and would not be disclosed to unauthorized third parties.

112. Plaintiffs and Class Members provided their respective personal data to Defendant with the explicit and implicit understandings that Defendant would protect and not permit the personal data to be disseminated to any unauthorized parties.

113. Plaintiffs and Class Members also provided their respective personal data to Defendant with the explicit and implicit understanding that Defendant would take precautions to protect that personal data from unauthorized disclosure, such as following basic principles of information security practices.

114. Defendant voluntarily received in confidence Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data with the understanding that the personal data would not be disclosed or disseminated to the public or any unauthorized third parties.

115. Due to Defendant's failure to prevent, detect, and/or avoid the data breach from occurring by, inter alia, failing to follow best information security practices to secure Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data, Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data was disclosed and misappropriated to unauthorized third parties beyond Plaintiffs' and Class Members' confidence, and without their express permission.

116. As a direct and proximate cause of Defendant's actions and/or omissions, Plaintiffs and Class Members have suffered damages.

117. But for Defendant's disclosure of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data in violation of the parties' understanding of confidence, their personal data would not have been compromised, stolen, viewed, accessed, and used by unauthorized third parties. Defendant's Data breach was the direct and legal cause of the theft of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data, as well as the resulting damages.

118. The injury and harm Plaintiffs and Class Members suffered was the reasonably foreseeable result of Defendant's unauthorized disclosure of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data. Defendant knew its computer systems and technologies for accepting and securing Plaintiffs' and Class Members' personal data had numerous security vulnerabilities because Defendant failed to observe industry standard information security practices.

119. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of confidence, Plaintiffs and the Class have suffered, and continue to suffer, injuries and damages arising from identity theft; damages from lost time and effort to mitigate the actual and potential impact of the data breach on their lives, including, inter alia, by placing "freezes" and "alerts" with credit reporting agencies, contacting their financial institutions, closing or modifying financial accounts, closely reviewing and monitoring their credit reports and accounts for unauthorized activity, and filing police reports, and damages from identity theft, which may take months if not years to discover and detect, given the far-reaching, adverse and detrimental consequences of identity theft and loss of privacy.

120. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's breaches of confidence, Plaintiffs and Class Members have suffered and will continue to suffer other forms of injury and/or harm, including, but not limited to, anxiety, emotional distress, loss of privacy, and other economic and non-economic losses.

Fourth Claim for Relief
Breach of Implied Contract
(On Behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class)

121. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class incorporate the above allegations as if fully set forth herein.

122. Plaintiffs and the Class entrusted their PII to Defendant at the time they entered into an employment relationship with Defendant. In so doing, Plaintiffs and the Class entered into implied contracts with Defendant by which Defendant agreed to safeguard and protect such information, to keep such information secure and confidential, and to timely and accurately notify Plaintiffs and the Class if their data had been breached and compromised or stolen.

123. Plaintiffs and the Class fully performed their obligations under the implied contracts with Defendant.

124. Defendant breached the implied contracts they made with Plaintiffs and the Class by failing to adequately safeguard and protect their personal information, by failing to delete the information of Plaintiffs and the Class once the relationship ended, and by failing to provide timely and accurate notice to them that personal information was compromised as a result of the Data Breach.

125. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's above-described breach of implied contract, Plaintiffs and the Class have suffered (and will continue to suffer) ongoing, imminent, and impending threat of identity theft crimes, fraud, and abuse, resulting in monetary loss and economic harm; actual identity theft crimes, fraud, and abuse, resulting in monetary loss and economic harm; loss of the confidentiality of the stolen confidential data; the illegal sale of the compromised data on the dark web; expenses and/or time spent on credit monitoring and identity theft insurance; time spent scrutinizing bank statements, credit card statements, and credit reports; expenses and/or time spent initiating fraud alerts, decreased credit scores and ratings; lost work time; and other economic and non-economic harm.

126. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's above-described breach of implied contract, Plaintiffs and the Class are entitled to recover actual, consequential, and nominal damages.

Fifth Claim for Relief
Unjust Enrichment
(On Behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class)

127. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class incorporate the above allegations as if fully set forth herein.

128. This claim is pleaded in the alternative to the breach of implied contractual duty claim.

129. Plaintiffs and Class Members conferred a monetary benefit on Defendant, by providing Defendant with their valuable PII. They also conferred a benefit on Defendant by providing their employment services.

130. Defendant enriched itself by saving the costs it reasonably should have expended on data security measures to secure Plaintiffs' and Class Members' PII and by retaining the benefit of Plaintiffs' and the Class's labor.

131. Instead of providing a reasonable level of security that would have prevented the Data Breach, Defendant instead calculated to avoid its data security obligations at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class Members by utilizing cheaper, ineffective security measures. Plaintiffs and Class Members, on the other hand, suffered as a direct and proximate result of Defendant's failure to provide the requisite security.

132. Under the principles of equity and good conscience, Defendant should not be permitted to retain the monetary value of the benefit belonging to Plaintiffs and Class Members, because Defendant failed to implement appropriate data management and security measures that are mandated by industry standards.

133. Defendant acquired the monetary benefit and PII through inequitable means in that they failed to disclose the inadequate security practices previously alleged.

134. If Plaintiffs and Class Members knew that Defendant had not secured their PII, they would not have agreed to provide their PII to Defendant.

135. Plaintiffs and Class Members have no adequate remedy at law.

136. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's conduct, Plaintiffs and Class Members have suffered and will suffer injury, including, but not limited to: (i) actual identity theft; (ii) the loss of the opportunity how their PII is used; (iii) the compromise, publication, and/or theft of their PII; (iv) out-of-pocket expenses associated with the prevention, detection, and recovery from identity theft, and/or unauthorized use of their PII; (v) lost opportunity costs associated with effort expended and the loss of productivity addressing and attempting to mitigate the actual and future consequences of the Data Breach, including but not limited to efforts spent researching how to prevent, detect, contest, and recover from identity theft; (vi) the continued risk to their PII, which remains in Defendant's possession and is subject to further unauthorized disclosures so long as Defendant fails to undertake appropriate and adequate measures to protect PII in their continued possession and (vii) future costs in terms of time, effort, and money that will be expended to prevent, detect, contest, and repair the impact of the PII compromised as a result of the Data Breach for the remainder of the lives of Plaintiffs and Class Members.

137. As a direct and proximate result of Defendant's conduct, Plaintiffs and Class Members have suffered and will continue to suffer other forms of injury and/or harm.

138. Defendant should be compelled to disgorge into a common fund or constructive trust, for the benefit of Plaintiffs and Class Members, proceeds that they unjustly received from them.

Sixth Claim for Relief
Publicity Given to Private Life
(On Behalf of Plaintiffs and the Class)

139. Plaintiffs and the members of the Class incorporate the above allegations as if fully set forth herein.

140. One who gives publicity to matters concerning the private life of another, of a kind highly offensive to a reasonable man, is subject to liability to the other for invasion of his privacy.

141. As a condition of their employment, Plaintiffs and the Class provided Defendant with sensitive personal information, including names, Social Security numbers, and financial account information.

142. Defendant failed to employ adequate and reasonable security measures to prevent public disclosure of Plaintiffs and the Class's private information.

143. Defendant failed to timely and reasonably notify Plaintiffs and the Class about the data breach for a period of months, which made Plaintiffs and the Class vulnerable to identify theft.

144. As a result of the disclosure of Plaintiffs' and the Class's private information, Plaintiffs have suffered a de facto injury, which entitles them to general damages.

PRAYER FOR RELIEF

Plaintiffs and members of the Class demand a jury trial on all claims so triable and request that the Court enter an order:

- A. Certifying this case as a class action on behalf of Plaintiffs and the proposed Class, appointing Plaintiffs as class representative, and appointing their counsel to represent the Class;
- B. Awarding declaratory and other equitable relief as is necessary to protect the interests of Plaintiffs and the Class;
- C. Awarding injunctive relief as is necessary to protect the interests of Plaintiffs and the Class;
- D. Enjoining Defendant from further deceptive practices and making untrue statements about the Data Breach and the stolen PII;
- E. Awarding Plaintiffs and the Class damages that include applicable compensatory, exemplary, punitive damages, and statutory damages, as allowed by law;
- F. Awarding restitution and damages to Plaintiffs and the Class in an amount to be determined at trial;
- G. Awarding attorneys' fees and costs, as allowed by law;
- H. Awarding prejudgment and post-judgment interest, as provided by law;
- I. Granting Plaintiffs and the Class leave to amend this complaint to conform to the evidence produced at trial; and
- J. Granting such other or further relief as may be appropriate under the circumstances.

JURY TRIAL DEMANDED

Plaintiffs demands a trial by jury of all claims in this First Amended Class Action Complaint so triable.
